

How To Be Power Savvy

MESSAGE FROM MANAGER
JERRY D.
WILLIAMS

Did you know that all power is not created equal?

When you get your power bill each month, you are assessed an amount based on a single rate for the number of kilowatt-hours you used. That rate is actually an average of the prices Lamar Electric Cooperative pays to the wholesale supplier that generates electricity for us.

The electricity we deliver that allows you to power your coffee maker or blow-dry your hair in the morning did not cost the co-op the same as the electricity you use to light your home in the evening or run the dishwasher after supper.

That's because of the way the electricity distribution system works. Electricity is generated and transmitted "live"—in other words, it is put on the grid as needed. That means when demand goes up, more power plants must be put online to supply that demand.

Overnight and in the wee hours of the morning, when most people are sleeping, demand is generally lowest, and so is the price your co-op pays. A few steadily running baseline power plants can supply the demand. These are known as economy price hours.

When the sun rises and people get up and prepare for their day at work or school, they begin to use more electricity, causing demand to rise and prompting grid operators to bring more power generation online, increasing costs. These are the normal price hours, when demand can be met fairly well by full operation of baseline plants.

In the afternoons and early evenings, the use of power spikes. In summer, that spike comes during the hottest part of the day, generally between 1 and 6 p.m., when air conditioner use is heaviest. In the winter months, that peak shifts to hours around and after sunset, from 6 to 8 p.m. or so, reflecting use of electric heating and greater indoor activity and lighting.

This peak demand often requires the use of expensive-to-run peaking power plants, which can be brought online quickly. These are the hours when electricity costs our cooperative the most.

The rate you see on your bill is a "blended" rate, combining the average of the economy, normal and peak rates. In addition to those power costs, there are fixed charges we pass along to cover the costs of system maintenance, materials and other necessary items.

You can help yourself and fellow cooperative members with some adjustments to your power usage habits. If you can, put off energy-intensive tasks such as using a clothes washer or dishwasher until after peak energy pricing has passed. If you can, adjust your thermostat a degree or two to make your heating or cooling unit run less.

Using programmable thermostats and appliance timers or delayed-start options will help make this adjustment easier.

The more our members can conserve, especially during peak hours, the lower the average rate will go, making everyone's power bills a little less expensive.

Remember, we are not here to make a profit—we are here to serve you with the best possible service at the lowest possible price. Through your actions and habits, you can have a real effect on that price.

NOTICE OF 2008 CAPITAL CREDIT ALLOCATIONS

Lamar Electric Cooperative recently allocated 2008 capital credits to each member's account.

After the end of each fiscal year, the cooperative must determine what, if any, margins were made during the year and allocate these margins to the members' accounts. Your cooperative's margin is the revenue received and receivable in excess of all its operating costs. Since members are owners of the cooperative, the margin is allocated to each member's capital credit account.

These capital credits will be returned to members as approved by the board in the future and when doing so will not weaken the financial condition of the cooperative. At this time, all margins from 1938 through 1969 have been returned to the members.

Capital credits for 1969 were the last retired, so it may be some time before you should expect to receive a check from this capital credit retirement. In the meantime, the funds are used to construct new lines or make improvements to the electrical system even though the amount is credited to each member's capital credit account. The capital credits cannot be used to pay your electric bill.

These capital credits remain even if the member is no longer receiving service from Lamar Electric. It is very important that departing members keep the cooperative informed of their current mailing addresses in the future so they may receive capital credit refunds when they are paid.

Capital credits for each member in 2008 were calculated by multiplying each member's bill by .0311822959. For example:

If your total billing for 2008 from the cooperative, (consisting of energy billing and power cost adjustment) was $2,000, simply multiply that amount by .0311822959. The product of this arithmetic is $62.36.

In calculating your total bill include any security light charge, but do not include any tax, service or miscellaneous charges.

If you have any questions concerning these calculations, please contact the cooperative office.

(This article is intended to serve as an official notice of the capital credit allocation for 2008.)

Unclaimed Capital Credit Checks for 2006

You may be due a refund check from Lamar Electric Cooperative.

Lamar Electric Cooperative is attempting to locate former members who have unclaimed capital credit refunds that were issued in 2006 for the years of 1965-69. Thousands of checks were returned undeliverable by the post office. Only a few months remain to claim your refund before the money must be turned over to the state.

The names listed are accounts that have capital credit refund checks of $50 or more available to them. If your name appears on the list, or if you are the legal heir to the estate of an account whose name is on the list, please contact Laura Williams at (903) 783-4907 to claim your refund.

We will publish more names in the coming months. A complete list of names is available at Lamar Electric Co-op's office at 1485 N. Main St. in Paris or online at www.lamarelectric.coop.
